

Notice on the Prevention of Infection with a Novel Coronavirus

Numerous cases of pneumonia caused by a novel coronavirus have recently been reported in Chinese regions, including Hubei province. As a precautionary measure, travellers to such Chinese regions are advised to follow the instructions below to prevent infection.

|| What should I do prevent infection?

- Keep out of any contact with a person showing respiratory symptoms such as fevers, coughs, etc.
- Strictly observe personal hygiene rules such as wearing a mask, washing hands, and covering your mouth and nose with an upper sleeve when coughing).

|| What should I do when entering Korea?

- Fill in the questionnaire on health conditions and submit it to a quarantine officer.

|| What should I do after returning to Korea?

- If you develop a fever and any respiratory symptoms (e.g. coughs, etc.) within 14 days of your returning to Korea, please call the KCDC Call Center at 1339 and consult a doctor at a screening clinic.
- If you develop any respiratory symptoms, wear a mask. Importantly, wearing a mask is a must when you go outside or visit a medical clinic or a hospital.
- Wash your hands with running water for more than 30 seconds.
- When you visit a medical clinic or a hospital, tell your doctor your overseas travel history: the fact that you visited or stayed in Chinese regions, including Hubei province.
